“ She was always ready to share memories of past life, family, her long career with the phone company. Her "iron will" and zest for life kept her on the go, and carried her through all of the good and hard times in her life. She was a force to be reckoned with (in a good way). I was honored to have known her for the short time that I did. Bill, I know you will miss her, but you have so many wonderful memories that you shared with her.
